Don't leave marketing up to your distributors alone.

It is a hard reality. Independent sales teams will often distribute an inconsistent and ineffective marketing message to their prospects. To create consistent results, your marketing must be standardized, rapidly available, and easily usable by your field leaders. Effective duplication and consistent sales results depend on it.

Replication means quality, standardized, and tested marketing content utilized and managed by unlimited numbers of agents and IBOs.

Replicate your website and easily roll-out new web campaigns for your entire agent force. Deploy proven content to thousands of agent pages in minutes. Allow for customizable areas while preserving your overall message and branding. Your team gets a highly professional web presence with the personalization they want. The Clarify replication platform gives you the replication tools to grow without expensive development and maintenance.

"Front-end" and "Back-end" Integration in one

Your marketing generates interest and desire. Without a consistent follow-up process, good leads quickly go bad. Your field members depend on effective contact management, follow-up scheduling and reminders.

Your Clarify solution integrates your "front-end" web campaigns with back-office pipeline management and follow-up so you and your team optimize every opportunity. Automatic lead capture, appointment setting and reminders, auto-response campaigns and standardized protocols ensure maximum duplication. Changes, announcements, and updates are made with ease. Communications flow freely without the typical inefficiencies of traditional email.

Replicated email and phone as well

Equip your team for success with a branded email address and a personal toll-free number that conveys the credibility and professionalism their prospects demand. Your field leaders can finally promote your offer with confidence of a large enterprise and the tools to compete. And...you get the administrative tools you need to manage it all with ease.
